Dear Ms. Stoddard:

You ask whether certain information is subject to required public disclosure under the Public Information Act (the "Act"), chapter 552 of the Government Code. Your request was assigned ID# 964259 (ORR# R001785).

Hays County (the "county") received a request for information pertaining to a named individual. The county claims the submitted information is excepted from disclosure under section 552.101 of the Government Code. We have considered the claimed exception and reviewed the submitted information.

Section 552.101 of the Government Code excepts from disclosure "information considered to be confidential by law, either constitutional, statutory, or by judicial decision." Gov't Code § 552.101. Section 552.101 encompasses the doctrine of common-law privacy, which protects information that is (1) highly intimate or embarrassing, the publication of which would be highly objectionable to a reasonable person, and (2) not of legitimate concern to the public. Indus. Found. v. Tex. Indus. Accident Bd., 540 S.W.2d 668, 685 (Tex. 1976). To demonstrate the applicability of common-law privacy, both prongs of this test must be satisfied. Id. at 681-82. Types of information considered intimate and embarrassing by the Texas Supreme Court are delineated in the Industrial Foundation decision. Id. at 683. Additionally, this office has concluded some kinds of medical information are generally highly intimate or embarrassing. See Open Records Decision No. 455 (1987). The Third Court of Appeals has concluded public citizens' dates of birth are protected by common-law privacy pursuant to section 552.101. See Paxton v. City of Dallas, No. 03-13-00546-CV, 2015 WL 3394061, at *3 (Tex. App.—Austin May 22, 2015, pet. denied) (mem. op.). The county must generally withhold the date of birth of the named individual under section 552.101 of the Government Code in conjunction with common-law privacy. We also find some of the remaining information, which we have marked, satisfies the standard articulated by the Texas Supreme Court in the Industrial Foundation decision. Accordingly, the county must generally withhold the information we have marked under section 552.101 of the Government Code in conjunction with common-law privacy.

However, the requestor may represent the named individual. Section 552.023 of the Government Code provides a governmental body may not deny access to a person or a person's representative to whom the information relates on the grounds that the information is considered confidential under privacy principles. Gov't Code § 552.023(a); see Open Records Decision No. 481 at 4 (1987) (privacy theories not implicated when individual requests information concerning herself). Thus, if the requestor represents the named individual, then the requestor has a right of access to the individual's private information pursuant to section 552.023 of the Government Code, and the county may not withhold information pertaining to the named individual under section 552.101 in conjunction with common-law privacy.

In summary, the county must withhold the date of birth of the named individual and the information we have marked under section 552.101 of the Government Code in conjunction with common-law privacy, unless the requestor has a right of access to that information pursuant to section 552.023 of the Government Code. The county must release the remaining information.<sup>1</sup>

This ruling triggers important deadlines regarding the rights and responsibilities of the governmental body and of the requestor.
